

YOUTH CENTER TOPIC OF TWO RECENT MEETS

A drive for a community youth center at West Liberty appears to be gathering momentum following two recent meetings at the VFW meeting hall at Index.

A group of citizens, comprised mostly of parents interested in providing "something for our young people to do during their free time" is exploring the possibility of obtaining federal funds to build and staff a recreation center which also would provide activities and a place to socialize for elderly persons.

State Rep. Joe W. Haney was asked to chair the group, which is talking tentatively in terms of a $100,000 community building with a permanent paid staff.

Representatives of all organizations and youth groups in the county will be invited to another meeting Nov. 30 to air their views on the proposed project.

In a conversation late last week with Rep. Haney, Gateway Area Development District officials at Owingsville said they will provide technical assistance in preparing applications for federal funds and said they will have a representative at the Nov. 30 meeting.

Rep. Haney, who was asked by the group to find out what federal funds are available for such a project, reported that grants of up to 75 percent of the total cost may be obtained from three federal agencies.

COMPLETION OF CONSERVATION WORK IS URGED

Ralph Hamilton, Chairman of the Morgan County Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee, reminded farmers installing practices under the 1970 Agriculture Conservation Program (ACP) that work must be substantially completed on or before December 31 in order to be eligible for payment under the program.

"It's in the law," he explained, "If a farmer doesn't finish his ACP work by the end of the year, the County ASCS Office can't make the cost-share payment."

Commenting that winter weather is just around the corner, he said that in past years it has sometimes prevented farmers from completing their conservation cost-sharing practices. "We hope it won't happen this year," he said in urging that farmers concentrate on completing their practices as soon as possible.

Mr. Hamilton pointed out that when approving a conservation cost-sharing practice the County ASCS Committee sets a completion date—and he said that most farmers finish and report their work in good time. "If circumstances prevent completion by the date set, a time extension can be granted," he said.

"However, we cannot extend completion time beyond December 31st. That's the point I want to make — ACP work must be substantially completed this calendar year."

Luke P. Blackburn was the only physician ever to hold the office of governor of Kentucky. He served from 1879-83.

The center span, comprised of eight 10-inch pipes and reinforced with wire cable, is 67 feet long. Mr. Arnett said the new bridge contains 100 sections of the 10-inch pipe, each section being 20 feet in length. Mr. Gilliam, shown at right above, said he hopes to have the span completed this week. The Arnett property is known locally as the Jesse Marion Williams farm.

COMBS SAYS LEGISLATURE SHOULD ENACT SEVERANCE TAX ON COAL

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 16 — Former Gov. Bert Combs told a conservation group yesterday that the next session of the Kentucky General Assembly should enact a severance tax on coal.

And the announced candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination predicted that the coal industry would go along with such a levy if it were allowed to participate in planning for the tax.

In a speech prepared for delivery before the Sierra Club at Louisville, Combs repeated his familiar theme of cleaning "... our littered landscapes and our choked rivers from the mountains of garbage and waste that pollute them."

Then he turned to "the problem of surface mining in our state" and called for the severance tax.

DRILLING UNDER WAY NEAR MOON

Using a rotary rig, drilling contractor Slim Ray of London already is making hole in the deep-test well Monitor Petroleum Corp. is drilling on Doc Ison Creek near Moon in northeast Morgan County.

After setting up the rig, drillers hit a flint-like formation near the surface which slowed drilling for a time.

The deep-test is on the farm of Fred Ison, three-fourths of a mile north of Moon post office. Bink Strickland, Monitor's division engineer, said it is planned to drill to the 9,500 foot level.

Monitor recently completed a 9,700 deep-test in eastern Elliott County, striking oil in the Rome at 7,900 feet and big flow of gas in the St. Peter at 4,600 feet. The well was drilled on a farm-out agreement with Ashland Oil, Pennzoil and Sun Oil, and the rotary rig was moved to Morgan to drill the deep-test at Moon.

Rubewoods Well

Richard Drake, drilling contractor, was down 1,580 feet Wednesday in the well he is drilling for Roland Amyx and Associates in the Rubewoods section of western Morgan County. The well is on the Ruth Bros. lease about three-fourths of a mile south of the Mussel Shoals bridge. Amyx, who has about 3,000 acres under lease in that area, plans to drill to a depth of 5,000 feet, possibly deeper.

Farm Bureau Proposes New Burley Poundage Program

PLAN SIMILAR TO ONE DEFEATED IN 1966 REFERENDUM

A new burley tobacco price support system based on poundage quotas alone was recommended by the Kentucky Farm Bureau's tobacco committee Monday, and the Farm Bureau was to act on the recommendation Wednesday at its convention in Louisville.

The program would provide for new quotas based on the amounts of tobacco being raised by farmers under the present acreage limits, but scrapping all limitations on burley acreage. These limits, the committee report pointed out, have failed for several years to keep production in line with the demand for tobacco, leading to fear that the whole program may founder.

The new program will be presented tomorrow to the voting delegates of the state Farm Bureau, now holding its convention in Louisville.

William Balden, Danville, chairman of the tobacco committee, said the new program would have the virtue of being simpler than the complex acreage-poundage quota system which failed to get the necessary two-thirds majority among burley growers in the referendums held in 1966 and 1967.

Those referendums were defeated largely on the basis of heavy majorities against acreage - poundage in Tennessee, where many farmers have tobacco allotments of a half-acre or less which cannot be reduced under the present program. The proposals were heavily favored by Kentucky growers.

Under the old acreage-poundage plan and under the proposed program as well, adjustments in allotments would apply to all growers.

He said the Tennessee Farm Bureau, at its convention now under way, is considering a proposal similar to the Kentucky plan.

The Kentucky program, prepared by a statewide committee of growers, warehousemen, government officials and educators, was approved yesterday by the approximately 250 members who formed the Farm Bureau's tobacco committee.

In making the presentation, Balden told the group that Kentucky and the other burley states face a certainty of a 25 percent allotment cut next year if the present program is continued.

The U.S. secretary of agriculture is required to make quota reductions when supplies on hand exceed a 2.8-year supply of tobacco. Present stocks, Balden said, constitute a 3.48 year supply at the present rate of usage.

The tobacco committee's report pointed out that cigarette consumption has leveled off, and that burley-tobacco use has not kept pace with cigarette uses, due to several changes in manufacturing practices.

Yields Have Increased

Meanwhile, it continued, growers have been increasing their production per acre by an average of approximately 84 pounds each year over the past 10 years. Thus, the acreage program of control has been effectively defeated in meeting its objective.

The new program, as explained by the committee, would be somewhat similar to the old acreage-poundage proposal, except that acreage curbs would be eliminated.

The Farm Bureau proposal would work this way:

Each producer's "farm yield"

LITTLE LEAGUE BASKETBALL TO BE ORGANIZED

The Morgan County Boosters Club is sponsoring a Little League basketball program for boys in grades 4 through 8. Any boy who is not participating in a junior varsity program in Morgan County is eligible to play. Men interested in coaching or assisting with the program are also urged to be present at the meeting.

Want Ads Really Get Results!

would be determined by averaging the yield for the farm in the three highest yielding years for the five-year period 1965-69, provided that the yield so determined does not exceed 3,500 pounds per acre. If it does, the yield would be set at 3,500 pounds.

A "preliminary poundage allotment" for a farmer would be the yield per acre times the 1970 acreage allotment for the farm.

The U. S. secretary of agriculture, for 1971 and subsequent years, would then determine a national quota under the provisions of the present burley tobacco quota formula.

Present Practices Kept

The individual farm quotas would then be adjusted so that their total would equal the national quota fixed by the secretary. Minimum and non-minimum allotments would be treated alike in adjustments.

Provisions for the establishment of new allotments, adjustments for inequities, adjustments for failure to produce tobacco, and the handling of allotments on land retired from agriculture would be retained as under the current program.

The committee also recommended that the new program contain the following features:

Individual producers could market in any year the quota for that year plus 10 percent. However, any marketing in excess of the quota would be deducted from next year's quota.

The individual producer would carry forward to the following year any part of his quota that was unused during the current marketing year, up to 100 percent of the quota. This provision could have the effect of providing insurance against individual crop failures.

Allotment holders would be permitted to lease burley quotas within counties for up to five years. This is looked on as a measure which would encourage more efficient farming of larger acreages.

The committee said these changes should be submitted to a referendum early next year.

DRUG ABUSE TOPIC OF COUNTY-WIDE TEACHERS MEET NEXT WEDNESDAY

All interested parents and citizens are invited to attend a county-wide In-Service Conference for Teachers at the Morgan County High gym Wednesday, Nov. 25. Topic of the program will be "Drug Abuse Education."

The program will begin at 9 a.m. and is intended to familiarize citizens with the facts about drug abuse and explain methods of preventing the problem's spread. Included in the program will be a film and talks by members of the medical profession, law enforcement agencies, and the bar.

Participating in the program will be Naomi Finch, RN, school nurse; Morris L. Peyton, M.D., Gary Elam, local pharmacist; Robert Lutchinson, attorney; and representatives of the Kentucky State Police, Cave Run Mental Health Program, and the Clinical Research Center, Lexington.

Neil Hunley will preside. The meeting will be concluded with a panel discussion on "Prevention of Drug Abuse."

Coal, already Kentucky's biggest cash resource, has passed the one-billion-dollar mark in return to state producers, and points even higher.

The figure is based on the Department of Mines and Minerals estimate that 115 million tons will be produced this year and figured at a price average of $9 per ton. But the dollar figure could go even higher since Eastern Kentucky coal is averaging between $9 and $10 a ton. Big Sandy coal averages highest in the state, the Department of Mines and Minerals said.

Last year 108 million tons were mined in Kentucky and in 1968 a total of 100.1 million tons were produced. In fact, production has increased each of the past four years. Production in 1961 was 64.9 million tons and the output returned only about $3 to $4 a ton. But today's bigger production is returning much higher prices.

EX-MORGAN COUNTIAN RESPONDS TO PROPOSED PIONEER VILLAGE

Wardie Craft of Caney has received two letters from Dennis T. Nickell of Venice, Fla., concerning the proposed "Pioneer Memorial Park" at Caney. Mr. Nickell gave Mr. Craft some valuable information on the two log cabins that are under consideration for the pioneer village and some history of the Davis family.

Mr. Nickell's first letter and portion of his second letter follow—

Venice, Florida, October 14, 1970.

Dear Mr. Craft:
I have just read with great interest in the October 8, 1970 issue of The Licking Valley Courier an article on the front page titled - "Pioneer Memorial Park Planned By Craft In Village of Caney" and that you had acquired both the "old log cabin Henry Home" near Index, and a portion of the "old log house" of my late maternal grandfather and grandmother, Rev. William Riley and Elizabeth Hurst Wilson Davis (better known in eastern Kentucky as "Uncle Bill" and "Aunt Liz") on Red River near Insko, Morgan County, both of which are to be re-erected on your property and form the nucleus of your proposed project.

Though a stranger to you I hope you will permit this 77 year old (self exiled since 1913) native Morgan Countian to extend my heartfelt congratulations on your intention to restore for the enlightenment of the living younger generations and perpetuate for enjoyment of those yet unborn - something typical of the housing a vast number of our ancestors occupied in the hills and mountains of eastern Kentucky over a century ago. Each of the "log cabins" you propose to restore is well over 100 years old and was built and occupied by the then living members of the "Henry" and "Davis" families, (who were among the earliest settlers of Morgan County) during the Civil War - and if each could talk I am sure the history of that war, as well as the early spiritual, social, political and economic life of that era would be much more complete than available records reveal. The original builders and occupants of these two "old homes" have long since taken that last long "walk thru the valley of the shadow of death" to their reward in "that home not made with hands eternal in the Heavens" but the generations who have succeeded are better for their having passed this way.

God speed you in your project and as a slight expression of my appreciation of what you are doing - and in memory of my beloved maternal grandparents - "Uncle Bill" and "Aunt Liz" Davis - I hope you will accept the enclosed check to assist you in a small degree with your expenses and in the spirit in which it is given.

With every assurance of my sincerity and hoping I shall have the pleasure of meeting you personally on or before your "museum" is completed, I am, "just an old expatriated Morgan Countian who wishes he was home."

Dennis T. Nickell
P. O. Box 454 - Venice, Fla. 33595

Venice, Florida, October 24, 1970.
I assume - and hope - when the Park has been completed and the houses "rebuilt" you will have a public dedication and if you have not already committed yourself and circumstances will permit my being present you will accord me the privilege of making the dedicatory address in connection with the portion of Grandfather's old home being rebuilt.

It may interest you to know that I have an enlarged, color picture of Grandfather - 10 x 15 inches - made from a snapshot I made of him on his 100th birthday, October 24, 1931, at the home of my father and mother, James Harlan and America Elizabeth Davis Nickell, about 1 1/2 miles down Red River from Helebachava, Ky. I also have a large family picture of Grandfather, Grandmother and all their five children made about 1904, which I propose to have suitably framed and - with your permission - will donate them for hanging permanently in the "old log house." I also plan on having a large plaque showing original date house was constructed, location and dates of the birth and death of Grandfather and Grandmother for permanent attachment alongside front door entry) Awaiting your further advice with interest, I am,

Sincerely yours,
Dennis T. Nickell
All letters and information of any kind concerning the history of the Bill Davis, Charley Henry, and Daniel Williams families will be filed as permanent records for the Pioneer Village, Mr. Craft said.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of my grandfather, JOHN ANDY SMITH who passed away November 21, 1934—

Pa-paw, I've missed you so since you passed on to your new home above. There is an empty spot in my heart that can be filled with no one else's love. It's so often I wish that you could be here again—without your sickness and pain—and talk to me as you used to, and guide me by your hand. There are so many times I've needed to talk to you, for your advice was needed more than all others by me. Oh what I'd give, Pa-paw, to hear you whistle another tune, and to be held in your lap as you used to do. Those are only sweet memories now, for I know they could never again be in this world, but someday I hope to see you as you were and still be your little girl.

Pa-paw, I'm married now. I've got a wonderful loving husband that treats me as good as you used to, before. So many times I've wondered why there couldn't be some way to bring you two together here in this life—for you and Bill are the most important men in my life. But then I console myself by thinking that we can come and be with you. And Pa-paw, someday that's what I plan to do.

If we ever have any children, I know I could never teach them just how much to me, but Pa-paw, I'll never forget how you stood up for me through thick and thin. I was only twelve years old when you passed on, but I'll never forget the love you gave me and the love I had for you. I loved you more than anyone else in the whole world at that time. I'm just thankful that I still have my sweet Mother, my loving brother and sisters, and most of all my dear husband.

Until we meet again, Pa-paw.

Your loving granddaughter,
Sherry Lee Bailey

NUNN MAKES CHOICE

Gov. Nunn last week told a newspaper reporter that Tom Emberton, formerly his aide, is "unquestionably" the strongest GOP contender for the party's 1971 nomination for governor, and "a man I could endorse without reluctance." And this led a newsman to speculate that the governor had endorsed Emberton, who resigned recently as a member of the Public Service Commission to make his political soundings across the state. Meanwhile, former State Parks Commissioner Robert Gable indicated he intended to oppose Emberton, saying he sees nothing new in the governor's remarks. Emberton indicated he might wait until the end of the year to announce.

SUPERSTITION SAVES LIFE — John Hagan, Marshall University's athletic equipment manager, would not accompany his team by plane to play East Carolina University because he said he was superstitious of flying on Friday the 13th, the day the plane left Huntington. Instead, he drove an equipment truck to and from Greenville, N.C., and thus was not on the big DC-9 when it crashed on returning to Tri-State Airport Saturday night, killing all 75 aboard. Hagan told a Huntington newspaperman Sunday that he refused to fly when the plane left Huntington because "I'm superstitious about Friday the 13th. Something just told me not to go on this trip." He was one of a half dozen who did not make the trip by plane, as scheduled. Five regular players didn't make the trip for one reason or another — one because he was attending his father's funeral in Texas, another because he got to the airport too late and the others because of injuries. All who made the trip died in the fiery crash Saturday night.

CORN 32% SHORT — The Kentucky Crop and Livestock Reporting Service estimates corn production will be off 32% a Kentucky this year, 4% more than was at first estimated due to the even blight. The 1970 corn crop now is estimated at about 50 bushels per acre which is about 27 bushels per acre short of the normal production.

THREE MAJOR TRAGEDIES have hit West Virginia in just three years time. Collapse of the Silver Bridge across the Ohio River at Point Pleasant in December of 1967 took 46 lives, and mine disaster at Farmington two years ago cost 78 miners. The third, last Saturday, claimed 75 when the DC-9 jet crashed a Tri-State Airport at Kenova as it was returning the Marshall University football team home from a game in North Carolina.

BIRTH CONTROL BILL — Congress re-convened Monday after the election recess, and soon after reconvening the House passed a bill backed by Rep. Tim Lee Carter (R. Ky.) that would provide birth control services for persons too poor to afford them. Approved 298 to 32, the bill would authorize $267 million over three years to expand family planning services on a voluntary basis. The House bill must be reconciled with a far different bill previously passed in the Senate. The House bill includes a section that would prohibit any funds from going to a program in which abortion is a method of family planning. The Senate bill did not contain this prohibition against abortion. Rep. Carter said it has been estimated that about five million indigent women now could use family planning services. Carter, a physician, said now only one in four indigent women receive this type of service.

Freshman and transfer students who satisfy the basic requirements may register in any undergraduate college at the University of Kentucky. Some colleges have additional entrance requirements which are indicated in the General Catalog. Generally, Kentucky residents are eligible for admission to the freshman class upon graduation from high school. Admission or non-residents is based upon probability of academic success as indicated by scholastic records.

More than 1,000 students of the health professions are enrolled in the different colleges of the University of Kentucky Medical Center. The University Hospital offers postdoctoral training for interns, residents, and clinical fellows.

ADDED SERVICE — The Division of Markets of the Kentucky Agriculture now offers "instant market quotations on livestock" via telephone. Between 8:50 a.m. and 8:30 p.m. a person can dial 564-4958, Frankfurt and get a recorded report of the latest market quotations on livestock. The reports are updated throughout the day, and includes latest prices on Kentucky and national markets.

RAIL BUILDING SLOWED — Three weeks of rainy weather has slowed work on the 24-mile railroad being built into Martin county by the Norfolk & Western to tap new coal mines on Wolfe Creek and Rockcastle Creek. A tide in Tug River halted work on the piers that will support a railroad bridge across the river from West Virginia into Kentucky, also mud accumulated in the long fills across the Cline farm near the river. The fill will be built high enough to carry the railroad over R. 292 at Lovely. Night and day crews plan to commence work dynamiting through the high ridge between Wolfe and Rockcastle creeks and the dirt and rock will be used for road fills.

GOV. LOUIS B. NUNN announced a $1 million building program for Natural Bridge State Park, including a recreation and convention hall for up to 400 persons. The governor's announcement was made during a speech to the Natural Bridge Association, at Slade. Nunn said the convention hall would cost $400,000. New water lines and a new sewage treatment plant will be installed at a cost of $600,000. The projects are to be financed by $200,000 insurance money obtained when the old Hemlock Lodge burned last year and the balance in federal money.

STATE NATURAL RESOURCES DEPARTMENT will not issue any new stripmine permits unless the operator first signs an agreement with the U. S. Soil Conservation Service. Gov. Louis B. Nunn announced the joint state-federal program under which the SCS will provide technical assistance for sediment control.

TENNESSEE VALLEY AUTHORITY announced awarding of contracts to two Whitley county concerns for a total of $3,504,800. Erwin Coal Corporation, with the Red Ash Pochontas Coal Company as agent, received a contract for 260,000 tons of coal over a two-year period, for $2,139,800, to be produced near Corbin. Whitley County Coal Company, with the same selling agent, will provide 156,000 tons over a two-year period, for $1,365,000.

CROP CONDITIONS, REGULATIONS
TOBACCO LEADERS MEET AND TALKNesting Not To Be Tolerated In Sales This Year

Interference with burley tobacco graders and basket nesting will not be tolerated this year, a USDA District Supervisor of the Tobacco Division, Agriculture Marketing Service, told members at the Burley Farmers Advisory Council annual fall meeting in Lexington Wednesday.

Zed Layson, USDA official from Bourbon County, said that although the owner or renter of the crop may accompany the government grader while marketing his crop, no other person, such as a tobacco warehouseman or employee, would be authorized to follow the grading procedure. "This new ruling will give the grader more freedom in his selection of the right grade and allow him to perform his duties without undue harassment," Layson explained.

The USDA supervisor noted that any interference by the warehouse would automatically suspend that "floor" from being graded for a price support and it (warehouse) would be passed until the next regularly scheduled sale for that "house." A few warehouses have been pressuring some graders to increase the grade on certain crops, which in turn, has necessitated this new ruling to affect all warehouses," he said.

Nested tobacco — leaf of a lower grade, quality or condition, or foreign objects knowingly concealed in a basket causing additional weight and offered for sale — will be returned to the warehouse for regrading and or reweighing and a charge of $7 per basket, plus the loss in price of leaf, will be passed down to the farmer, according to Layson. "Before, warehouses have had to stand the loss," he said, "although they may not have been solely responsible for the act." Layson told the members that more than 550,000 pounds of leaf were returned from the processing plants to the warehouses last year because of nested tobacco. Now, crop owners will have to pay for the loss before marketing their tobacco the following year.

The Tobacco Inspection Act provides that nesting tobacco on purpose is unlawful and that that person upon conviction shall also be fined not more than $1,000 or imprisoned not more than one year, or both. County ASCS offices will send a letter to all tobacco growers in this effect before the market's opening. Layson stated.

NEW GRADES — Layson also noted several new grades had been added to the mixed tobacco group for better identification and differentiation in pricing. "In several instances a good mixed crop has suffered because of a lower grade given to it in the mixed group. With the new additional grades, a mixed crop of exceptionally good leaf will be eligible for a somewhat higher price support," Layson said.

Louis Ison, state Farm Bureau president, Harrodsburg, reported that the Tobacco Protection Fund has received very good response the past year and would be continued on a larger scale this year. The fund was initiated last year to help counteract the "false and malicious" advertising against smoking cigarettes and other tobacco products broadcast over the radio and television media. Ison said a suit is now awaiting action in the Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati, Ohio, contesting the anti-smoking commercials. He noted that there was also a campaign just started to stop smoking on public buses and airplanes that needs immediate attention from the tobacco industry.

Getting a late start last year, the fund collected $16,000 dollars from five or six tobacco centers of which $9,000 has already been spent for court costs, the Farm Bureau executive told the burley group meeting at the Springs Motel.

$1 DONATION

"We are asking farmers for a $1 donation per allotment to defend the state's number one cash crop against crusades to destroy the entire tobacco program," Ison said. "All warehouses and tobacco boards of trade are being asked for their cooperation in collecting the donation" he noted.

TOBACCO OUTLOOK

Dr. Milton Suffett, University of Kentucky College of Agriculture Economist, vice chairman, and Garnett L. Bradford, UK economist specialist, reported the following burley tobacco situation and short term outlook:

Manufacturers stocks at a low of 889 million pounds (about a 1.7 years supply compared to over a two years supply).

U.S. Government Commodity Credit Corporation (Pool) stocks high at 470 million pounds for an increase of over 40 per cent from last year and totaling 96 per cent of a year's domestic disappearance.

The possibility of a strong market near the $73 range.

A drastic reduction in quotas for the 1971 season of 25 to 30 per cent or more if the "pool" receives in excess of 10 per cent of this year's crop.

Total supply of burley on Oct. 1 (production plus stocks) now totals 1,909 million pounds and is approximately at the same level as last year. A total of 550 million pounds of burley was used during the 1970 crop year. This marks

SUNDAY LAW VIOLATIONS

CHARGED AT PAINTSVILLE

PAINTSVILLE, Ky. — City police served summonses Sunday on the owners of three stores accused of violating the state Sunday closing law.

Owners of the Paintsville Sunday Store, Hospital Pharmacy and Foodland entered "not guilty" pleas in the city Police Court.

Trials for the three were scheduled for Wednesday.

The highest named number is the centillion which is followed by 600 zeros.

The fifth consecutive year that burley use has declined, and the second straight year in which utilization will exceed the production.

STIFF RULING ON SUNDAY TRADE
MADE BY THE COURT OF APPEALS

FRANKFORT, Ky., Nov. 12 — Striking a massive blow against stores operating on Sunday, the Court of Appeals held Thursday that violators of a court injunction must be fined 50 per cent of such gross sales.

The decision also invalidated an attempt by several Louisville and Jefferson County stores to legalize Sunday sales by requiring their customers to declare them to be of "extraordinary necessity."

Reversing an order by Jefferson Circuit Judge Marvin Sternberg, the court said each of about 20 stores were in contempt of court and must be fined for every Sunday it was open in violation of a temporary injunction of Sternberg's.

Each of those fines, the high court said, must be large enough so as to assure compliance with the temporary injunction.

But in no event can such fines "be less than an amount equal to 50 per cent of the total gross sales of merchandise made by each store during the day of violation," the court held.

NOT TAKEN FINE

Such a penalty goes far beyond the token fines normally levied in Sunday closing violations.

The crucial difference, however, is that the operations were in defiance of a circuit court's temporary injunction prohibiting the sale of certain items on Sunday except in emergency cases, get around the injunction by acquiring each customer to sign a certificate saying his purchases were of extraordinary necessity or emergency to him.

"The evidence established that the business of satisfying extraordinary necessities and emergencies as certified by the customers was brisk indeed," the high court noted. "The Sunday sales included such items of extraordinary necessity or emergency."

continued. "as superstitious toy racers, record albums, toy dump trucks, nail polish, . . . fertilizer dust, ear rings, eyebrow pencils and lipstick. . . ."

"The very nature of the items sold is, in itself, a denial of extraordinary necessity and emergency and convinces us that the appellates opened for business on Sunday for their own business purposes rather than the necessity of their customers."

"Their actions were deliberate and constitute a direct affront to the court and a challenge to its authority," the high court said.

The court said Sternberg had erred in failing to hold the store operators in contempt of court on a complaint brought by the Louisville Retail Merchants Association (RMA).

DC-9 JET CRASHES AT KENOVA, KILLS ALL ABOARD - 75

A twin-engine DC-9 jet plane carrying Marshall University's football team, coaching staff and many prominent Huntington citizens, crashed atop hills and burned as it came in for landing at Tri-State Airport at Kenova, W. Va., Saturday evening shortly after dark during a rain storm, killing all aboard—a total of 75 people.

The plane was returning from Greenville, North Carolina where the Marshall team had played East Carolina University that afternoon.

There were no survivors, and it is the nation's worst air disaster this year.

Marshall Coach Rick Tolly died in the crash, also 34 Marshall football players, three student aides, five assistant coaches, the athletic director, the airplane crew of five, and several prominent Huntington citizens, including four doctors and their wives.

The big jet circled below rain clouds and disappeared behind a hill that rises along Big Sandy River preparing to come in on a normal flight pattern. The plane clipped the top of trees on the ridge two miles from the airport. It continued across a hollow, struck another hillside, cartwheeled upside down and exploded in flames.

Federal officials said the airport was not equipped with sophisticated radar that follows a landing plane's flight path and flashes a warning light in the cockpit if it drops too low.

"If he had not hit the treetops on the ridge, he would have made it," said an airport official.

BY ORPHA M. HAMILTON

Nov. 10 — A most happy occasion took place Sunday at the home of our nearest neighbor, Mrs. Alka Williams, as her father, Jim Elam, "chalked up" his 98th milestone. (Actually his birthday is today the 10th.) Almost 40 people, mostly members of his family, gathered to congratulate him and enjoy the delicious food. MOTOR TRANSPORTATION DEPT. HAS WIDER DUTIES THAN REALIZED

Many people think of Department of Motor Transportation workers as "those fellows who catch truckers if they are overweight."

Actually, that is only one of a number of important functions conducted by this branch of state government.

The department authorizes bus and truck lines and other commercial motor-vehicle companies to perform certain public services, along with certain routes and at certain rates.

Motor Transportation's duties include the regulation of motor carriers by the establishment of reasonable requirements for continuous and adequate services; systems of accounts, records and reports and safety standards.

The department's responsibilities include the issuance, refusal, revocation, and renewal or extension of all intrastate motor carrier authority, administration of the tax statutes applying to motor carriers, and regulation of persons engaged in the business of manufacturing or selling motor vehicles and mobile homes.

The department's division of law enforcement is composed of a force of 65 officers under a director, Col. Jess Paul Engle, and assistant director, Lt. Col. Russell Murphy.

To enforce truck weight limits its and truck safety inspections, the state is divided into eight districts, each with seven officers plus a captain.

Capt. Lindbergh Amyx of West Liberty is in charge of District No. 6, which includes Morgan, Magoffin, Knott, Floyd, Johnson, and several other eastern Kentucky counties.

Most coal trucks and many other trucks are weighed on portable scales, which all Motor Transportation enforcement officers carry in their vehicles.

The khaki-clad men are all Kentucky law enforcement officers. They travel in marked cruisers, with blue lights, and they have authority to make arrests or issue citations for any motor-vehicle violations.

They are under orders to concentrate on commercial vehicles, but occasionally they arrest drunken drivers or other motorists observed to be driving with exceptional recklessness.

About half the officers' time is spent in making safety checks of trucks and other vehicles. In the past fiscal year they made 17,060 such safety inspections, an increase from the 16,910 inspections in the 1968-69 fiscal year.

The home had a TV set and some of the old people were watching it.

MOTOR TRANSPORTATION DEPT. HAS WIDER DUTIES THAN REALIZED

Many people think of Department of Motor Transportation workers as "those fellows who catch truckers if they are overweight."

Actually, that is only one of a number of important functions conducted by this branch of state government.

The department authorizes bus and truck lines and other commercial motor-vehicle companies to perform certain public services, along with certain routes and at certain rates.

Motor Transportation's duties include the regulation of motor carriers by the establishment of reasonable requirements for continuous and adequate services; systems of accounts, records and reports and safety standards.

The department's responsibilities include the issuance, refusal, revocation, and renewal or extension of all intrastate motor carrier authority, administration of the tax statutes applying to motor carriers, and regulation of persons engaged in the business of manufacturing or selling motor vehicles and mobile homes.

The department's division of law enforcement is composed of a force of 65 officers under a director, Col. Jess Paul Engle, and assistant director, Lt. Col. Russell Murphy.

To enforce truck weight limit

its and truck safety inspections, the state is divided into eight districts, each with seven officers plus a captain.

Capt. Lindbergh Amyx of West Liberty is in charge of District No. 6, which includes Morgan, Magoffin, Knott, Floyd, Johnson, and several other eastern Kentucky counties.

Most coal trucks and many other trucks are weighed on portable scales, which all Motor Transportation enforcement officers carry in their vehicles.

The khaki-clad men are all Kentucky law enforcement officers. They travel in marked cruisers, with blue lights, and they have authority to make arrests or issue citations for any motor-vehicle violations.

They are under orders to concentrate on commercial vehicles, but occasionally they arrest drunken drivers or other motorists observed to be driving with exceptional recklessness.

About half the officers' time is spent in making safety checks of trucks and other vehicles. In the past fiscal year they made 17,000 such safety inspections, an increase from the 16,910 inspections in the 1968-69 fiscal year.

By Helen Ward

Nov. 16 — Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Stamper of La Grange were recent visitors of his mother, Mrs. Clemma Stamper.

Lawrence Harlow of West Virginia is visiting his sister and family, the Amos Smiths. He is helping strip tobacco while here.

Mr. and Mrs. Ora Gordon Manning and children of Lexington and Mr. and Mrs. Winfred Manning and children were recent supper guests of the Victor Manning family.

Several from around here are through stripping tobacco and others are working trying to get done before the weather gets too cold. We are having snow and looks like winter is here, not just around the corner.

Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Lacy of Bellbrook, Ohio were weekend guests of her mother, Helen Ward, recently. They took some Irish potatoes and sweet potatoes home with them.

To all who are ill, bereaved, or shut-in a glad "hello" and When you doubt the lovely silence

Of a quiet wooded place, When you doubt the path of silver

Of some moonlit water space, When you doubt the wind

Flash of lightning, glistening rain, Sun or starlit heavens above you

On the land or bounding main, When you doubt the sleep of loved ones

Deep beneath some precious sod, Listen to a soft voice saying, "Be still, and know that I am God."

ODDS AND ENDS

By Earl Kinner, Jr.

The above turnip, placed on a copy of The Licking Valley Courier for comparison's sake, weighed 4 lbs., 7 oz. when dug.
It was grown by Leonard De-Bord of Malone. The whopper turnip was from a patch he sowed Aug. 20, Mr. DeBord said.

It has been reported by a reliable source that officials of the Gateway Development District read last week's Courier story concerning their activities with considerable interest. We are also glad to report that Gateway seems to have taken a keen interest in helping Morgan County's apply for federal aid to construct a youth center and conduct a supervised recreation program. (See page one story).

For your information: You can become the possessor of an American flag that has flown over the U.S. Capitol. All you have to do is write your Congressman for this favor, enclosing $3.15 for a 3x5 flag, or $6.00 for a 5x8.

A large animal—thought to be a bear—which had been raiding the garbage can at the home of Gerald Smith in the Pomp section turned out to be an unusually large "wild dog." So large that it reportedly had been turning over a 60-gallon metal drum (used to hold trash) with ease.

The animal payed one call too many on the Smiths' trash barrel Sunday night and Smith shot it—twice with a shotgun and again with a pistol, sources say. Upon discerning the size of the dog, Smith took the carcass next day to Dr. Wm. Holbrook to see if he could identify the breed.

Dr. Holbrook, local veterinarian, said the animal had short-brownish hair, was made like a Boxer but with a head more like a German Shepherd, had short ears standing up from the head, extremely long legs, and weighed 130 pounds! "A thoroughly mean looking customer," he said.

Dr. Holbrook estimates the dog to be 8 to 10 years old. All its "canine teeth" were worn down to "nubs," he said.

He theorized that the deterioration of the dog's teeth had made it impossible for the animal to capture and eat meat, and thus it was forced to raid garbage cans in order to survive.

Whether the dog had been released by a passing motorist or whether it was indeed a "wild dog" and had been a resident of the area for some time, or wandered in, is not known.
Dr. Holbrook estimated that when reared up on its hind legs, the dog would have stood five and a half to six feet tall.
